UNICEF – THE LEADING AGENCY FOR CHILDREN’S SUPPLIES

UNICEF is dedicated to protecting children’s rights through helping them meet their basic needs and expanding their opportunities, so they reach their full potential. Making suitable supplies available, accessible and affordable is fundamental to this. Supplies enable children to achieve their right to good health, a basic education and protection from harm.

UNICEF Supply Division oversees UNICEF’s global supply and logistics operation. We are one of the most experienced, technically advanced and respected procurement agencies in the UN system.

- Annually, UNICEF procures and delivers over $1.4 billion worth of supplies, assisting over two billion children.
- We are the world’s largest buyer of mosquito nets.
- We supply vaccines reaching 55 per cent of the world’s children.
- We bought and distributed educational equipment to send to over 12 million children per year back to school.

Through Procurement Services, UNICEF leverages additional resources for children. We work with governments and other partners to help them in their efforts to procure supplies for children and their communities, and to become self-sufficient.

PROCUREMENT SERVICES

UNICEF provides supply services that benefit children on your behalf. We place at your disposal UNICEF’s global knowledge, purchasing capacity and logistics expertise.

Our assets are: integrity, price performance, quality, and capacity-building.

The Procurement Services team, an integral part of UNICEF Supply Division, is an effective group of multi-disciplinary professionals. We offer you 60 years of UNICEF experience and a network of offices in 158 countries and territories. Our global expertise combined with our local knowledge allows us to assess country-specific needs better and build local capacity. Our primary focus is in the areas of supplies for health, nutrition, education, recreation, water and sanitation.

In recent years, more and more governments and partners have been using UNICEF Procurement Services, benefiting millions of children.

Our key advantage is offering our partners a full supply package, customised to their requirements. This can include assistance with product specifications, procurement, end-user monitoring, including in-country operational support, and training in procurement and supply management.

We offer procurement services to governments, Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs), United Nations agencies, International Financial Institutions, philanthropic organizations and universities. We do not procure on behalf of individuals or profit-making entities. In addition, UNICEF only provides Procurement Services that contribute to its mandate, A World Fit for Children and the Millennium Development Goals. UNICEF does not make any profit from Procurement Services, however we are required to cover our costs by charging a minimal handling fee. Procurement Services partnerships are governed through a Memorandum of Understanding.
