

One out of every three children is exclusively breastfed for the first six months of life in the developing world. East Asia/Pacific and Eastern/Southern Africa are the regions with the highest levels of exclusive breastfeeding in the first six months of life, while CEE/CIS and West/Central Africa have the lowest levels.

Indicator: Percentage of infants exclusively breastfed for the first six months of life.

