

The world's lowest incidence of low birthweight is found in industrialized countries and in the East Asia/Pacific region. South Asia has the highest incidence of low birthweight.

Indicator: Percentage of infants with low birthweight (less than 2,500 grams).

Source: UNICEF analysis of latest available estimates of low birthweight incidence (1998–2004).