UNICEF report on the recommendations of the Joint Inspection Unit

Summary

In accordance with Executive Board decision 2001/4, the present report summarizes the response of UNICEF to the recommendations contained in the reports of the Joint Inspection Unit issued from January through December 2018. Of the nine reports publicly issued during the period, seven contained recommendations directly relevant to UNICEF. The organization greatly appreciates the insight of the Joint Inspection Unit and the related observations and recommendations included in the reports.

* EICEF/2019/9.

I. Introduction

1. The Joint Inspection Unit (JIU) annually issues reports and notes addressed to the executive heads of United Nations organizations that have accepted its statute. Each report or note contains a series of recommendations for consideration by either the executive heads or the legislative/governing bodies of the organizations. The present UNICEF report to its Executive Board provides, inter alia, a brief overview of the organization's response to relevant reports publicly issued by the JIU from January through December 2018¹ and comments on JIU recommendations that have been directed to UNICEF (see annex I). The complete reports and notes of the JIU and any additional annexes and comments – for example, those by the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination (CEB) – can be obtained through the JIU website (www.unjiu.org) or through the hyperlinked titles of each report in section II.

2. UNICEF has continued to work with the JIU on its various reviews and to follow up on the recommendations contained in the reports. Furthermore, as a member organization of the CEB, UNICEF has continued to contribute to the drafting of consolidated responses to various JIU reports.

II. Overview of Joint Inspection Unit reports issued in 2018

3. The seven reports with recommendations relevant to UNICEF are summarized below. For additional comments on the relevant recommendations, see annex I.

A. Results-based management in the United Nations development system: analysis of progress and policy effectiveness (JIU/REP/2017/6)

4. UNICEF welcomes the JIU report and note (JIU/NOTE/2017/1) on results-based management in the United Nations development system (JIU/REP/2017/6). The five stages of development in the mainstreaming of results-based management (RBM), as well as the four pillars or management areas, provide a useful framework for assessing the extent to which RBM has been mainstreamed within the United Nations funds and programmes. UNICEF, along with the majority of other organizations assessed, is considered to have fully mainstreamed RBM but the use of RBM is predominantly internally focused. This assessment reflects the considerable investments UNICEF has made in mainstreaming RBM over the past few years, and also offers valuable suggestions for areas where UNICEF could make additional enhancements to its application of RBM throughout the organization as well as in the context of United Nations reform. UNICEF is committed to use the findings and recommendations of this report to further realize the added value of RBM to organizational effectiveness and development effectiveness. (CEB comments available in A/72/809/Add.1.)

B. Review of donor reporting requirements across the United Nations system (JIU/REP/2017/7)

5. This report offers critical insights into the current challenges resulting from donor reporting in the context of an ever-greater rise in non-core voluntary contributions and earmarking in the United Nations system. UNICEF welcomes the seven recommendations on how to improve donor reporting, better address donor needs and requirements, and enhance the standing of the United Nations system as a responsive and valuable partner for donors. UNICEF was commended for its efforts to improve its management of voluntary contributions, notably reporting to donors and the implementation of reliable systems to support financial management, transparency, and accountability and compliance with rules, regulations, and policies. (CEB comments available in A/73/320/Add.1.)

C. The United Nations system: private sector partnerships arrangements in the context of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development (JIU/REP/2017/8)

6. The report focuses on United Nations system coherence, coordination and efficiency as an imperative for the United Nations to show its readiness to meet the Sustainable Development Goals, and particularly Goal 17. The report outlines a series of recommendations for the development of system-wide solutions to enable a more harmonized and agile approach to working with the private sector, and to fuel long-term and reliable forms of inter-agency interaction, resource pooling and knowledge-sharing. UNICEF remains committed to actively contribute to the areas highlighted in the report. Its co-leading role in the United Nations Sustainable Development Group (UNSDG) Results Group for Strategic Partnerships, launched in 2018, is a practical example of this commitment to the effective and efficient coordination of the United Nations system. (CEB comments available in A/73/186/Add.1.)

D. Review of mechanisms and policies addressing conflict of interest in the United Nations system (JIU/REP/2017/9)

7. The report covers the review and assessment of the regulatory framework of the United Nations system organizations for addressing conflicts of interest, by assessing current mechanisms and practices, identifying gaps and making recommendations for improvement. The report highlighted the urgent need for reform of the existing conflict of interest disclosure system, among its six recommendations. UNICEF supported the recommendations of the report and has since taken steps to review its conflict of interest and financial disclosure programme, specifically through an external review by an international accounting and advisory firm. (CEB comments available in A/73/187/Add.1.)

E. Review of internship programmes in the United Nations system organizations (JIU/REP/2018/1)

8. The report covers the review of internship programmes in the United Nations system from 2009 to 2017, during which time the size of internship programmes grew significantly. The JIU undertook an in-depth analysis of the use of internship programmes across United Nations organizations, including the different modalities and degrees of stakeholder satisfaction. It was recognized that there is a need for coherent management of the internship programmes across the United Nations system, with a common set of good practices based on a benchmarking framework. The JIU formulated a list of recommendations that provided the opportunity for UNICEF to reflect on and devise concrete action plans addressing each of the recommendations through inter-agency focus groups to enhance the effectiveness of the internship programme. (CEB comments available in A/73/377/Add.1.)

F. Review of whistle-blower policies and practices in United Nations system organizations (JIU/REP/2018/4)

9. The report covers the review by the JIU of the effectiveness of whistle-blower policies and practices across the United Nations system organizations to ensure that whistle-blowers are accorded adequate levels of protection, especially with regard to retaliation. The review involved an analysis of protection against retaliation policies, which was conducted across the United Nations system organizations in order to measure perceptions. UNICEF generally supported the recommendations of the report and has since then updated its whistle-blower protection policy.

G. Opportunities to improve efficiency and effectiveness in administrative support services by enhancing inter-agency cooperation (JIU/REP/2018/5)

10. UNICEF is committed to working with other agencies in the United Nations system to ensure its administrative systems are efficient and effective and takes full note of and broadly agrees with the recommendations in the report. UNICEF will continue to implement recommended actions where possible and provide timely updates on progress).

III. Status of Joint Inspection Unit recommendations addressed to UNICEF

11. In 2018, the JIU issued nine reports, of which one was a single-organization report and eight were system-wide reviews. The eight system-wide reports contained a total of 47 recommendations, of which 45 (96 per cent) were relevant to UNICEF. These included nine addressed to the UNICEF Executive Board and thirty-six to the executive head of UNICEF. The acceptance and implementation status of the 45 recommendations is presented in annex I, and can be summarized as follows, as of January 2019:

(a) UNICEF accepted 38 recommendations, of which 12 had been implemented, and 26 were in progress;

(b) Five recommendations are still under consideration for acceptance;

(c) Two recommendations were relevant to UNICEF but are outside its sole remit for implementation.

12. Annex II details the status of recommendations made by the JIU prior to 2018 that were still open as of January 2019. In summary:

(a) The total number of open recommendations was 38, including 25 issued in the period 2015–2017, and 13 during the period 2010–2014;

(b) Of the 38 open recommendations, 23 were accepted and in progress, 13 were implemented, 2 were still under consideration.

Results-based management in the United Nations development system, analysis of progress and policy effectiveness (JIU/REP/2017/6)
1. Recommendations addressed to the legislative body/Executive Board
Recommendation 6	Under consideration
Legislative bodies may wish to work with heads of organizations to enhance the focus on managing for results beyond the demand for accountability and reporting to give a greater focus on what works, what does not work and why, and do so with due regard to context.	This recommendation is made to the Executive Board rather than to UNICEF itself. A common approach with other agencies is proposed for discussion this year.
2. Recommendations addressed to the executive head
Recommendation 1	Accepted and implemented
Executive heads who have not already done so should develop a well-defined, comprehensive and holistic strategy to guide the mainstreaming of results-based management within and across organizations.	UNICEF has fully integrated results-based management as a main principle and organizational enabler in the UNICEF Strategic Plan, 2018–2021 as well as into its work processes and systems.
Recommendation 2	Accepted and in progress
Executive heads, including the Secretary-General, in his capacity as Chair of the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination, should consider establishing a backbone support function to ensure that the vast range of innovations introduced in results-based management across the United Nations system are captured, supported, assessed for value and shared for adoption system-wide.	UNICEF has recently added results-based management specialists who have joined the United Nations Innovation Network and are collaborating on a recent proposal on using artificial intelligence to reduce bureaucracy.
Recommendation 3	Accepted and implemented
Executive heads should strengthen the development of the culture of results by including in their respective capacity development agenda a focus on enhancing the mindset and value systems that are important for enhancing staff commitment and engagement in implementing results-based management.	UNICEF has developed a comprehensive results-based management learning package for staff.
Recommendation 4	Accepted and implemented
Executive heads should ensure that the future development of approaches to staff accountability and human resources management incorporate more consideration of managing for achieving results,	Investments in results-based management learning for staff will continue to be made as part of the approved UNICEF Organizational Learning Strategy.

including the development of incentive systems that promote both accountability for results and accountability for transformative learning and innovations at all levels.

Recommendation 5

Executive heads should make the use of information on results, including evidence resulting from evaluation, a strategic priority.

Accepted and implemented

UNICEF has developed corporate data systems and scorecards that provide information on programme and office performance, to inform and support senior management decision-making.

Review of donor reporting requirements across the United Nations system (JIU/REP/2017/7)

1. Recommendations addressed to the legislative body/Executive Board

Recommendation 1

The governing bodies of the United Nations system organizations should encourage the Secretary-General and executive heads of other organizations, in the framework of the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination, to develop a common position and pursue a high-level strategic dialogue with donors, in order to address the challenges posed by the current funding models and practices and the impact of strict earmarking of voluntary contributions and reporting to donors.

Accepted and implemented

Implemented through the structured dialogue on financing the results of the UNICEF Strategic Plan, 2018–2021. UNICEF is proactively using the structured dialogue to support discussions with Member States on financing the Strategic Plan, 2018–2021 and to support the Secretary-General's reform agenda.

Recommendation 7

The governing bodies of the United Nations system organizations should request the executive heads to task, and adequately support, the internal audit and evaluation offices of their respective organizations with ensuring that the relevant oversight reports provide the required levels of assurance that would help to minimize reporting to individual donors on the use of their earmarked contributions.

Accepted and implemented

UNICEF will continue to engage with donors regarding their assurance needs to ensure that wherever practicable these will be met by the organization's evaluation and internal oversight reporting.

2. Recommendations addressed to the executive head

Recommendation 2

The executive heads of the United Nations system organizations that have not yet done so should put in place measures for ensuring that partnership agreements, concluded at the corporate level with the donors and at the corporate and field levels for individual programmes and projects, spell out the needs and requirements of the donors and the mutual commitments of the organizations and the donors, with respect to the details of reporting on the use of funds provided.

Recommendation 3

The executive heads of the United Nations system organizations should encourage better access to, and dissemination and exchange of, information concerning donor reporting among the Member States and should ensure that every organization maintains a corporate repository for all contribution agreements and donor reports.

Accepted and implemented

UNICEF has launched a transparency microsite that improves access to its programme and financial data and provides the public with current information on activities taking place in 128 UNICEF offices globally.

Recommendation 4

The executive heads of the United Nations system organizations that have not yet done so should regularly update guidance on donor reporting and put in place measures for the professional skills development and training needed to improve reporting to donors, for personnel at headquarters and in the field.

Accepted and implemented

UNICEF manuals and guidance notes on the acceptance and management of voluntary contributions were created and will be continuously updated as policies, procedures and processes evolve.

Recommendation 5

The executive heads of the United Nations system organizations that have not yet done so should work systematically with donors to include in donor agreements the costs associated with preparing donor reports.

Accepted and in progress

This recommendation will be addressed through the work of the inter-divisional group on reforming the UNICEF approach to donor reporting.

Recommendation 6

The Secretary-General and executive heads of other United Nations system organizations should, preferably within the framework of the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination, develop and adopt a common report template accommodating the information needs and requirements of donors and the regulatory frameworks and capacities of the organizations, as a basis for negotiations with donors.

Accepted and in progress

UNICEF is addressing this as part of the inter-agency work towards the definition of the new generation of United Nations Development Assistance Frameworks and United Nations country teams (UNCTs). Opportunities to reinforce and systematize interaction with the private sector at the country level are also explored in the Internal Review of the United Nations Global Compact (co-chaired by the UNICEF executive head) by looking at the role of the local networks and possible interaction with the UNCT.

Recommendation 1

Legislative bodies should adopt measures by 2020 to ensure that all policies related to misconduct/wrongdoing and retaliation specify appropriate channels and modalities, such as independent oversight committees, for reporting and investigating allegations against the executive head of the organization, as well as against any other functions that may entail a potential conflict of interest in the handling of such issues.

Outside the sole remit of UNICEF

UNICEF has limited authority over legislative bodies.

Recommendation 4

By 2020, the legislative bodies of the United Nations system organizations should request executive heads to ensure that the independence of the head of ethics, head of oversight and ombudsman/mediator functions is clearly defined, in accordance with recommendations contained in JIU reports (JIU/REP/2006/2, JIU/REP/2010/3, JIU/REP/2011/7, JIU/REP/2015/6 and JIU/REP/2016/8), and that these functions report periodically to the legislative body.
