1. Context and Description of Object of the Evaluation

Azerbaijan has changed dramatically in the last ten years, with strong economic and social developments. While there are overall positive tendencies, there are pockets of issues that are still challenge. One such area is access to justice for children who are in contact and conflict with the law. The transition processes after independence from the Soviet Union have brought large-scale legal and judicial reforms in Azerbaijan. As part of UNICEF’s regional agenda, juvenile justice reform has been initiated in Azerbaijan since 2007, which resulted in significant improvements for the protection of the rights of juveniles in conflict with law. But there are still risks, challenges and gaps in ensuring access to justice for children, which encompasses a much broader array of issues than juvenile justice.

UNICEF country office in Azerbaijan has been implementing the project on “Promoting access to justice for children Azerbaijan through national Capacity Building for State and non-State Actors” since November 2014 with financial support of Delegation of the European Union to the Republic of Azerbaijan. UNICEF Azerbaijan has also been implementing the project of “Provision of Technical Assistance under the Judicial Services and Smart Infrastructure Project (JSSIP)” supported by WB. The project aimed to develop Juvenile Justice Legal and Institutional Assessment Report and based on the assessment, elaborate a proposal for the National Strategy to Strengthen Juvenile Justice in Azerbaijan. The initial idea on elaboration of the Project also benefited from the evaluation report of the UNICEF-led program on legal aid in Azerbaijan and the UNICEF and EU report titled “Juvenile Justice in the CEE/CIS Region: Progress, Challenges, Obstacles, And Opportunities”, 2013, which revealed many obstacles that hamper the protection of children in contact and conflict with law, particularly lack of adequate services, “substandard conditions” in pre-trial detention, ill-treatment and torture of children and poor governance in the system.

The goal of the project is to strengthen human rights protection of children at risk through enhancing access to justice mechanisms. This in turn should contribute to democratic reforms, increasing participation of civic organizations and State actors in monitoring the protection of human rights.

While UNICEF lately has been doing more policy advocacy focused work, it is increasingly clear that some areas need more comprehensive intervention rather than only policy advocacy. Therefore, UNICEF tried to employ various methodologies in implementing this project, which involved technical assistance to the State to improve the policies, but also build the capacity of the local NGOs to become effective actors in resolving local child rights issues that have national implications.

Therefore, UNICEF has worked both at the policy advocacy level to change the legislative norms and also social norms through behaviour change methods, and supported NGOs to provide community-level services.

One of the main themes of the Project was to build capacity of the Ombudsman and increase the impact of the independent monitoring mechanism. National Preventive Group of the Ombudsman was selected as one of the stakeholders since it has the mandate to ensure protection of the rights of children in justice system.

The Project facilitated establishment of new legal/support services to enable access to justice for children in five districts of the country. The project activities are supported with the Project funding for 24 months and are implemented by the regional participating NGOs. Each NGO was expected to ensure continuation of the service provision after the Project ends.

2. Duty bearers & Right holders

Duty bearers/entities affected by the project are following:

- Ministries of Interior and Justice, Education and Social Protection;
- Ombudsman of the Republic of Azerbaijan;
- Representatives of civil society, 5 NGOs/ Resource Centres in Gabala, Shirvan, Aghjabedy, Mingechevir and Shamkir;
- Members of the National Preventive Mechanism (NPM);
• Penitentiary service facilities;
• Members of National and Local Commissions on minors;
• Parliamentarians;
• Law-enforcement personnel and judges.

The right holders who should benefit from the project in the long term are:

• Children in conflict with law, witnesses and children interacting with administrative and judicial systems;
• 1500 children and families directly will benefit from access to justice services provided by NGOs and state authorities;
• Juveniles held in detention (pre / post-trial);
• Children held in correctional/educational institutions;
• Families and communities of children in conflict with law.

3. Purpose of the Evaluation

The purpose of this evaluation is to measure the success of the project and summarize good practices and lessons learned for both UNICEF, the donor and the government counterparts for future consideration. The overall purpose of the evaluation is to determine the relevance, efficiency, impact and sustainability of the project as an approach to strengthen access to justice for children system in Azerbaijan. As the project ends in August 2017, it was agreed with the donor that the summative evaluation of the project will be carried out at the end of the project.

The primary audience of the evaluation will be UNICEF Azerbaijan CO, Delegation of the European Union, Ministry of Labour and Social Protection of the Population, Ministry of Justice, Ombudsman and secondary audience is implementing partner NGOs. The information presented in the final evaluation report should be easy to understand and comprehensible. Recommendations should be based on evidence and analysis, be relevant and realistic, with priorities for action made clear.

The results of the evaluation will provide practical recommendations for improving quality of provided service and for the scaling up of such project to the national level.

4. Evaluation Objectives

The objectives of the summative evaluation are to measure the extent to which the project has met its specific GOALS below:

a. to build and strengthen the capacity of civil society organizations to facilitate better access to justice in line with EU and international principles;

b. to increase the capacity of the public control organizations (Ombudsman) to facilitate independent monitoring of child rights violations and;

c. to build and increase the communication capacity of civil society organizations to improve perceptions and attitudes about children at risk in general society.

d. development and implementation of human rights (gender mainstreaming, child rights, people with disabilities, etc.) based approaches.

5. Evaluation Scope

In addition to project objectives, evaluation should examine if the following six inter-related and coherent outcomes, which should be the main building blocks for achieving the goal of the project have been achieved. Measurement indicators of each outcome are available for evaluation. Evaluation team should consider gender, equity and child rights dimension while conducting project evaluation.
Outcome 1. Relevant State Authority has increased capacity to effectively monitor and report on violations of the rights of children in contact and conflict with law.

Outcome 2. Increased capacity for CSOs using legal aid and judicial procedures to attain protection of the rights of children.

Outcome 3. Improved societal attitudes and perceptions about children through increased capacity of civil society organizations and use of communication strategies.

Outcome 4: Effectively functioning child protection system ensuring access to justice for children at risk.

Outcome 5: Better informed and well-trained law enforcement professionals facilitating adequate access to justice.

Outcome 6: Improved legislative and administrative framework ensuring necessary mechanisms for better access to justice for children.

Evaluation also should measure if the activities below were implemented properly and how much they have contributed to achievement of the project outcomes and objectives.

Activity 1. Capacity building for and technical assistance to the National Preventive Group on Ill-treatment and Torture of the Ombudsman to better monitor violations of rights of children in justice, social care and school systems.

Activity 2. Capacity building of at least five local/regional NGOs on the concepts and main principles of access to justice for children.

Activity 3. Technical support to selected regional NGOs on designing and delivering community-based support mechanisms targeting children and families in need to access to justice services.

Activity 4. Change public perceptions through Communication for Development tools.

Activity 5. Supporting efforts to bring social work to the justice system.

Activity 6. Capacity-building of the law-enforcement personnel working with children in contact with the law, including those allegedly in conflict with it.

Activity 7. Revision to the legislative and administrative framework based on lessons learned from results of the Action.

The evaluation should cover the period of project implementation (1st December 2015 to 25th August 2017) in five districts of Azerbaijan: Mingachevir, Aghjabedi, Shirvan (City), Shamkir and Gabala; and on national level capacity development activities were implemented with the National Preventive Group.

6. Evaluation Framework

The project evaluation questions are formulated as per OECD-DAC evaluation criteria: relevance, efficiency, effectiveness, sustainability and impact. Additional criteria such as coverage, coordination and coherence should also be used in evaluation.

Below are a set of guiding questions that should be responded by the evaluation. However, it is expected that the evaluator may suggest additional questions or sub-questions, and during the evaluation additional information that adds substance to the key questions will be collected and included in the final evaluation report.

Relevance

The extent to which the project meets the needs of target groups and right holders.

- To what extent does the project address underlying causes of exclusion and respond to the needs of the most vulnerable target groups?
- To what extent are the objectives of the project still valid?
• Are the activities and outputs of the project consistent with the overall goal and the attainment of its objectives?

• Are the activities and outputs of the programme consistent with the intended impacts and effects?

• How relevant is the project to UNICEF Azerbaijan Country Programme Action Plan?

• To what extent is the project implemented by UNICEF relevant or contribute to the overall national juvenile justice framework and to the broader rule of law and justice sector reform agenda implemented in Azerbaijan?

• To what extent have the project complied with the standards of the CRC and other international instruments (Beijing Rules, Riyadh Guidelines, etc.)?

• How does the project fit into the wider context of national child and social protection priorities?

• Was the project designed and implemented in taking into consideration existing policy and regulatory framework and socio-economic environment and needs?

• Do the project outcomes address key issues, their underlying causes and challenges?

• To what extent and how did the project take into account existing institutional and human capacities and results of the previous efforts as a basis for planned interventions?

• Were the project objectives set realistically to be achieved in a given period of time?

• To what extent was the idea of geographical targeting relevant in the country context, taking into account Azerbaijan’s centralized governance system?

• To what extent were Government and non-governmental stakeholders as well as other UN agencies were consulted and in agreement with UNICEF’s geographical targeting?

• To what extent is the project design relevant vis-à-vis the overall project goal and the achievement of its objectives in the given period of time?

• Was the project designed according to international norms and agreements on Human Rights (HR) and Gender Equality (GE) and in line with national strategies to advance HR & GE?

• Is the appropriate government management structure in place to achieve the expected results?

• Is there another or similar system currently in place? If so, how is this linked to this project?

Effectiveness

The extent to which a project activities achieve its outcomes. In evaluating the effectiveness of a project, the following questions should be considered:

• To what extent were the objectives achieved?

• To what extent and how have the expected outcomes of the programs been achieved?

• Have the planned results been achieved by the end of the project?

• What are the results of interventions in terms of:
  • reported cases of violations of child rights in all types of detention facilities,
  • number of children and families directly benefited from access to justice services provided by NGOs and state authorities,
  • number of district level child rights commissions in at least 10 districts benefits from training activities
What are the major constraints and limitations in the delivery of programs? What are the facilitating factors?

To what extent did the project succeed in strengthening capacities of law enforcement officials, child protection officials, National Preventive Group, Ombudsman Regional offices and regional NGOs in realisation of human rights, promoting gender equality and reflecting the equity dimensions?

Is there a demonstrable improvement in state capacity related to child rights in the target districts?

To what extent the approach was effective in identifying and addressing the different needs/rights issues of boys and girls?

HAVE legislative acts and policies improved as a result of UNICEF’s approach?

Are results achieved similar in all 5 districts? Which districts perform better/worse and for what reason?

To what extent and how has the project contributed to the creation of a coherent legislative and policy framework (Number of new legislative acts have been prepared within the Project life time; and Number of new legislative acts have been adopted by the government.)

To what extent and how has the project contributed to the establishment of Guidelines on Social Work for Families and Children in Justice System; and Guidelines on Social Work for Families and Children in Child Protection System);

To what extent the Project contributed to strengthening monitoring and reporting capacities of NPG?

In what ways and to what extent has the project contributed toward changes in levels of knowledge and awareness of the public and officials about the problems children in conflict and contact with the law?

How satisfied were the right holders of the services they received through the NGOs?

In what ways and to what extent has the database developed for the NPG linked to the three-year strategy on child rights monitoring?

Efficiency

The extent the management of the Project ensure timelines and efficient utilization of resources.

When evaluating the efficiency of a programme or a project, the following questions should be considered:

- How well have the financial resources been used / were funds managed in a cost-effective manner / what is the correlation between funds utilized and outputs / results achieved / could the same results be achieved with less resources?

- To what extent were activities implemented as scheduled, how flexible was the project in adapting to changing needs?

- Did the project ensure co-ordination with other similar projects to encourage synergy and avoid overlaps? Was it possible to direct all programmes to the target districts? What obstacles were encountered?

- To what extent was UNICEF successful in focusing its resources on the target districts? Were UNICEF resources (human, financial) sufficient to implement partnerships at the local level?
• How do local authorities value the quality of the partnership? Is this different among the five target districts?
• To what extent were management and monitoring systems established to track the project results in five districts?
• To what extent have the programme been innovative in access to justice programming? If so, can conclusions be drawn on using these innovations or the approach in general in similar contexts?
• Were there other resources made available apart from UNICEF?

Impact

The extend the project increased system’s capacities to ensure that more vulnerable and excluded children benefit from legal-aid and legal representation services. When evaluating the impact of a programme or a project, the following questions should be considered:

• Are there any external factors (risks and assumptions) that have affected the impact of the project? Are the factors, if any, sufficiently taken into consideration in adjusting the design of the project?
• Did the project create demand for better protection of the rights of children in detention centres and closed facilities through working with the Ombudsman’s National Preventive Group?
• Did the project provide accessible legal aid and legal representation services to children in vulnerable situations?
• To what extent have the project improved the lives of the vulnerable groups in selected districts?
• What was the potential of project activities to lead to improvements in legislation and normative framework related to access to justice, pre-trial detention, child care, support services and child protection?
• Can demonstrable impact on service delivery to children and families be documented in the target districts?
• To what extent have achievements in the target districts fed into national level policy dialogue and supported the environment for implementation of child rights?
• To what extent have achievements in target districts been documented and scaled up to non-target districts?
• In what ways and to what extent has the National Preventive Group contributed to the follow-up and response of child protection cases?
• In what ways and to what extent has the project changed the capacities of partners to prevent, monitor and respond to child protection concerns?
• Were there any unexpected (either positive or negative) outcomes of the project that had not been planned for? If so, which ones?
  • How has coordination and collaboration between relevant local entities changed as a result of the project?

Sustainability

Sustainability is concerned with measuring whether the benefits of an activity are likely to continue after donor funding has been withdrawn.

When evaluating the sustainability of a programme or a project, it is useful to consider the following questions:

• What were the major factors which influenced the achievement or non-achievement of sustainability of the project?
• What measures have been taken to ensure sustainability of the project? What are the resources (both human and financial) used to sustain the intervention?
• Are the activities likely to be continued when external support is withdrawn, and will it be more widely replicated or adapted?
• What are the next steps to be undertaken in order to scale up this intervention?
• To what extent has UNICEF been successful in ensuring that improvements in local capacity will be sustained beyond the current project cycle?
• What capacities have been built at institutional level and were they sustainable?
• Did the Project design include an appropriate sustainability strategy (including promoting national/local ownership, use of local capacity, etc.) to support positive changes for the most vulnerable groups after the end of the project?
• To what extent the legislative framework developed and policy documents produced provide a ground for sustainable and coordinated service provision for the most vulnerable children and their families?
• What is the level of ownership of the project by the MoLSPP and local Executive Committees?
• To what extent has the Project promoted strengthening of already existing partnerships and establishment of new ones and to strengthening of inter-sectoral and cross-sectoral cooperation both at the national and local level?
• What would be the human, financial and technical resource implication(s) to scale the project up to national level/coverage?
• In what ways and to what extent have there been synergy and/or coherence between the project and other organization?
• To what extent has the project contributed to the generation of sub-national and national capacity, such that it will be sustainable if UNICEF funding ceases?

In addition to the 5 main evaluation criteria, the evaluation shall also focus on assessing human rights-based approach and relevant cross-cutting issues, coverage, coordination and coherence.

Cross-cutting: To what extent are sex and age disaggregated data collected and monitored? In what ways and to what extent has the project integrated an equity based approach into the design and implementation of its interventions? Does the project actively contribute to the promotion of child and women rights, especially the most vulnerable? To what extent and how does the project ensure a non-discrimination and equity focus?

Coverage: Was representativeness of coverage ensured by project activities? Which groups have been reached by the project and what is the different impact on those groups? Have vulnerable children been reached, including children with disabilities?

Coordination: What was the role of the MoLSPP, SCFWCA, ExComs, NGOs, community and other key actors in the design, coordination and implementation of project activities?

Coherence: What were the areas and ways of cooperation with other UN and donor agencies’ in regard to development of services for vulnerable children? How does the project relate to the existing national and/or local policy on children under three? Was there coherence across interventions supported by different agencies?

Methodology

The company or consultant group will be requested to propose a detailed methodology as part of the inception report, which should be guided by the UNICEF’s revised Evaluation Policy1, the Evaluation Norms and Standards of the United Nations Evaluation Group (UNEG)2, UNICEF Procedure for Ethical Standards in Research, Evaluations and Data Collection and Analysis3 and UNICEF’s reporting standards.

Evaluability assessment

Clear project implementation structure, availability of baseline and target data for indicators and routine collection of data from the project districts makes the project evaluable. UNICEF Monitoring and Evaluation system will provide support in filling the data gaps to extent possible. Data sources, particularly those containing disaggregated data, are assessed as reliable.

Following existing sources of information are assessed and identified as reliable:

a. Database of cases
b. NGOs’ monthly reports and Output Evaluation Form for each of local consultant
c. Monthly report of national Juvenile Justice consultant
d. Three-year Strategy in National Preventive Group
e. Law on Social Services
f. Guidelines on Social Work for Families and Children in Justice System;
g. Guidelines on Social Work for Families and Children in Child Protection System
h. Communication Strategy and Action Plan of 5 local legal aid partners
i. Reports from project international consultants
j. Minutes of the Task Force Group meetings of Juvenile Justice
k. Other relevant documents

All of the documents listed, together with a contact list of all for the project relevant professionals, project implementing partners and consultants will be provided to the evaluator team once a contractual agreement has been made.

The evaluation will undertake a transparent and participatory process involving relevant project participants and partners at the national and local levels and employing a mix of quantitative and qualitative methods for data collection and analysis. The process is expected to take place within 4 months timeframe starting in June 2017.

Limitations to the evaluation

There are several limitations to the evaluation which can hinder the process.

- Disaggregated data on local level might not be available, or the quality of available data may not be good.
- Interviewing government counterparts for the evaluation may depend on their availability.
- In two districts project teams have been replaced due to objective reasons. Therefore, new teams may not have enough information about project activities of the previous teams.

The applicants should discuss the above or other potential limitations in their proposal.

The evaluation should include the following steps:

Step 1: Desk review of relevant project documents

The evaluator or consulting team will review key project documents to understand the project approaches, process and activities since its inception in 2015 to date. The documents could include the relevant national policies, other study reports, project documents, progress and monitoring reports; review meeting documentation, and national Juvenile Justice consultant’s report.

Step 2: Preparation of Inception Report that includes evaluation methodology and tools

The methodology should be prepared to cover all the intended objectives of the evaluation. The evaluation methodology design will be finalized in agreement with the reference group (with UNICEF, EU, MoLSPP, NPG, NGOs) and inception report should be prepared based on the Evaluation Norms and Standards of the United Nations Evaluation Group and submitted to reference group.

Step 3: Data collection
The application of both qualitative and quantitative data collection methods is expected, which should be human rights based, including child rights based and gender sensitive. The data collected should be disaggregated by sex, ethnicity, age, disability, and location. Field visits to project districts should employ methods ranging from document review, interviews, focus group discussions, surveys, observation depending on the final methodology.

Step 4: Data analysis
Collected data should be analysed by using relevant analysis method that should be clearly described in the report.

Step 5: Sharing preliminary findings and recommendations
The evaluation team will share preliminary findings and recommendations with the reference group. While feedback will be taken into consideration and incorporated into the draft report, the evaluators are encouraged to guard against validity threats, such as personal bias.

Step 6: Draft report
The evaluation team prepares a draft report, with conclusions and recommendations drawn from the data. The report structure should follow UNICEF’s evaluation report guidance.

Step 7: Finalization of the evaluation report
The evaluation team will present the final draft evaluation report to the reference group with a power point presentation. Recommendations of the project evaluation report should also be presented. Comments and feedback on the findings and recommendations should be incorporated to finalize the report.

| Desk-review & Inception report | 18 days | All relevant project documents are reviewed and inception report that includes result of desk review, consultation meetings and detailed evaluation methodology that is compliant with UNICEF requirements for inception report. Inception report will be assessed based on Global Evaluation Report Oversight System (GEROS) review criteria. Among other inception report should include following components:
1. Evaluation plan including timelines and activities
2. Methodology
3. Data collection instruments (quantitative & qualitative)
4. Ethical protocols (if relevant)
5. Quality control procedures
6. Training plan
7. Field work plan including team composition, logistics, field monitoring, etc.
8. Plans for data analysis (quantitative and qualitative), report preparation and dissemination |
| Data collection | 14 days (including travels) | Primary data is collected from target groups and partners based on the methodology described in inception report. |
Data analysis and first draft report | 20 days | Relevant analysis methods applied to analyse primary and secondary data and draft report is prepared.

Presentation of findings | 5 days (including travels) | PowerPoint presentation of findings including practical recommendations is presented to reference group and project partners feedbacks recorded to be considered in final report.

Final report | 5 days | Final report should be between 30-50 pages and structured as per the UNICEF-Adapted UNEG Evaluation Reports Standards

Annex 3 – Primary Data Collection Guides and Templates

General methodological notes:

Each interview and focus group will start with the presentation of the evaluator and of the evaluation objectives, followed by the presentation of the participants. Whenever necessary, a brief presentation of the Project will be also done.

The evaluator will confirm the interviewees that participation in the evaluation is voluntary and that their opinions will be confidential and presented in the report in an anonymous manner. They will be also reminded that they could withdraw anytime during the interview or focus group without any obligation to explain the reasons.

The participants in interviews and focus group will be briefed in advance about the major topics to be discussed during the meeting. They will take place in Baku, in the sample districts or by e-mail, as the case. Interviews (individual or in group) will last around 1-1.5 hours each, except those with vulnerable children which will last around 30 minutes; the focus group with professionals from regional NGOs will have a duration of 2 hours.

In line with standard evaluation practices, the interviews and focus group will be attended only by the evaluator, the interviewed stakeholders and the interpreter (if the case).

GUIDES FOR IN-DEPTH INTERVIEWS

Interview Guide for UNICEF country office
(Representative; Deputy Representative; Child Protection Specialist; Child Rights Monitoring Specialist; Financial/Operations officer; Communication officer – multiple interviews; questions will be adapted for each interviewee)

1. What strategic needs and priorities of the country have been addressed by the Project? How were the target cities and districts selected?

2. What are the major achievements of the Project that you are most proud of? What was the most challenging in achieving these results? Are there any unplanned effects of the Project with significant contribution to improving the access to justice of vulnerable children and families?

3. How do they measure “change in knowledge and attitudes among the target groups”, “increase in knowledge of law enforcement officials on the rights of the children in pre-trial detention” (indicators), “successfully solved cases” (interim report)?

4. Did some target cities/districts perform better than others? If yes, how and why?

5. How would you assess the cost-effectiveness of the legal aid and legal representation services for children in target districts? (as such and compared to similar services delivered by other stakeholders/providers, if the case)

6. How satisfied are you with the overall Project management and implementation i.e. performance of implementing partners and consultants (co-applicant NGOs, regional NGOs), timelines, efficiency in utilization of financial and human resources, procurement/contracting/small granting for district activities, risks mitigation, coherence with other relevant interventions? How has UNICEF carried out the monitoring of the Project at national and district level? Reporting.

7. How would you describe UNICEF’s cooperation with Ombudsman, NPG, line ministries, JJTF Group? What about cooperation with stakeholders at district level (local authorities, district child rights commissions, NGOs, etc.)? What went well? What could have been done better?

8. What was the strategy used by UNICEF to ensure that vulnerable children and families have access to legal aid and legal representation? What was ‘vulnerability’ defined by the Project?

9. What difference has UNICEF made via this Project for vulnerable children (which?) and their parents/caregivers in terms of: a) access to child-friendly justice mechanisms; b) parents’ empowerment; c) reducing equity gaps; d) increased state allocation for services in the justice and child protection sectors?, e) changing/challenging negative social norms? What was the effect of the Project upon children in detention and/or in closed institutions?

10. Looking ahead, which of the achievements of the Project are likely to be sustained or expanded without further external support? Which of them will require further support? What measures have you taken to ensure sustainability?

11. In your view, what is the likelihood that the Government in Azerbaijan will set up/expand the services ensuring access to justice for vulnerable children, based on the model developed by UNICEF? What are the favouring/blocking factors?

12. In your opinion, which are the top three priorities for increasing the access of children to justice in Azerbaijan that needs to be addressed in the coming years? Do you see any particular role of UNICEF in addressing them?

3. Who were in need of those services? (you, your partner, your child)? Have any of you faced challenges in getting these services?

4. Would you have requested these services for yourself, your partner or your child if you were requested to pay a fee?
5. Are you/Have you been satisfied with the quality of the services? Why? (or Why not?) What was the most tangible benefit to your child and family life that you would highlight as a result of benefitting of these services?

6. Have your child/children been ever involved in justice proceedings? When did it happen? What would you tell us about your experience on this?

7. Do you have any particular additional needs in relation to your child (children)? If yes, how could you be supported to address them in the future?

Interviews with children (in sample districts)
(children who benefitted of Project services in the sample districts; age 12-18; they should include vulnerable children)

Note: The interview guide will be developed based on a prior discussion with UNICEF CO and the regional NGO that provided services to the respective children to understand the circumstances which required assistance, the type of assistance, etc. and thus adapt the questions accordingly, avoiding any sensitive questions and discomfort of interviewed children.

GUIDE FOR FOCUS GROUP

Guide for Focus Groups with regional participating NGOs (in Baku)
(Training and Resource Centres and Youth Education Centre local offices in sample districts: project coordinators and lawyers)

Introduction
- Introduction of the evaluator to the group
- Presentation of participants
- Provision of background information to the focus group:
  - The purpose of the discussion
  - The intended recipients of findings and how they will be used
  - How feedback will be handled (issues of anonymity, confidentiality, data protection)
  - Rules of the focus group: who speaks when and agreement on how to indicate when one wants to speak
  - The time allocated for discussion and explanation of the focus group approach
- Answering any questions participants might have.

Discussion
- Exploring actual learning experience
  - Which new skills and knowledge do you retain following the trainings delivered by the Project? What have you learned new that you did not know before? Please provide 1-2 examples.
  - Do you apply new skills and approaches in your work with children and parents?
  - Do you have further needs for capacity building? In which area?

- Exploring actual changes in behaviours and attitudes
  - What is the profile of children and families whom you provide the services supported by the Project? (residence, occupation of parents, socio-economic status of the family, disability, etc.). Have you been told by UNICEF which vulnerable children and families to target with priority?

- To what extent was the Project relevant to your city/district needs?
- What challenges have you faced in setting up and running the legal aid and legal representation services?
- What services are the most required and why? What is most challenging in your work? (e.g. providing services in remote areas)
- What do you think have been the biggest achievements of the UNICEF-supported legal aid and legal representation services in terms of access of vulnerable children to justice?
- Would have it been possible to achieve these changes (if any) without this support?
- Would you say that your NGO is now a ‘hub of child rights discussion platforms for local civil society and community’ as a result of the Project?
- How do you know that the public awareness events that you organised as part of your communication plans supported by the Project have eventually met their goal? What attitudes/perceptions have you managed to change?
- Could you indicate examples of justice proceedings which respected the human rights of children, but did not before the Project?
- What are the challenges ahead and ways to overcome them? Do you see any particular role for you in this process?

End of Discussion

- Thanking participants for attending and giving feedback.

Annex 5 – Evaluation Sample

Apart from desk review of relevant documentation, interviews with key informants and focus groups, the evaluation methodology includes site visits to a sample of target districts for in-depth review.

The sample suggested by UNICEF CO has been screened by the International Consultant against several sampling criteria to check its representativeness for the overall number of districts targeted by the Project and its learning potential. More specifically, the following sampling criteria have been used:

1) Rural/Urban regional balance: it was considered useful to ensure that the sample includes a city and a predominantly rural district given the significant differences in terms of available service provision, perceptions and attitudes towards children at risk, etc. that will need to be analysed by the evaluation.

2) Vulnerability profile of beneficiary children: the Project has mainly aimed at promoting an improved access of vulnerable children to child-friendly justice mechanisms and services; the sample has been thus constructed to include the districts where some of the most disadvantaged children have been ‘served’ by the Project (children with disability, internally-displaced children).

3) Typology of Project interventions: given the scope of the evaluation, the sample included districts where the whole range of supported services have been developed and provided to children and families in need.

4) Implementing partners: the regional interventions have been implemented by Resource and Training Centres and by Youth Education Centre. In order to learn from successes and challenges, various practices and approaches used by NGO partners in terms of outreach, efficiency, etc., the sample included districts where implementation has been done by different organisations.

The Sample which resulted after the review of key Project documentation, analysis against sampling criteria and discussion with UNICEF CO is composed of 1 city and 1 district, representing 40% of the total number of cities and districts targeted by the Project and around 43% of children assisted by the Project (June 2017). The table below provides an overview of the sampling criteria and compliance of the sampled cities and districts.
