UNICEF Lebanon 2020-2021

UNICEF's work

The past 18 months have been tough for children in Lebanon. The COVID-19 pandemic, the economic crash and the Beirut Port explosions have devastated lives and livelihoods, leaving families struggling to survive. But they haven't been alone. UNICEF has been there to lend a hand children and their families.

COVID-19 Response

The number one priority has been to safeguard the health of families from COVID-19. The pandemic left societies around the world scrambling to respond. In Lebanon UNICEF has been working with partners to provide supplies both for the vaccination campaign in 2021 and the response to the pandemic since March 2020, to provide people with the best and most up-to-date information and to protect frontline health workers.

We reached 3.4 million people with critical prevention messages and how to access services. We have supplied more than 2,400 frontline health-care workers with COVID-19 personal protective equipment (PPE) and equipped more than 200 health care facilities with COVID-19 infection prevention and control (IPC) and PPE materials. UNICEF also supported the public school system with COVID-19 prevention measures to create a safer environment for children.

UNICEF has enhanced its cash assistance programme, reaching 80,000 vulnerable people affected by the Beirut Port explosions and 70,000 children affected by the economic crisis in 2020. ## Economic Crisis

At the same time UNICEF refocused its efforts to support families caught up in the economic crisis. In the past year, the Lebanese currency went into freefall and inflation has eaten into wages and savings through consumer price increases for basic goods and services. More than half of Lebanese families are in poverty and the situation among Syrian refugees is even worse.

UNICEF is responding by enhancing its social protection programme, including the launch of a UNICEF Child Grants program, “Haddi”, for 70,000 Lebanese, Palestinian and Syrian vulnerable children. We are also working closely with the Lebanese national authorities, the ILO and other partners to strengthen the national social protection system by establishing social grants for the most vulnerable persons.

The Beirut Port explosions

The explosions in August 2020 left an estimated 100,000 children affected by damage in their homes, injuries, and over 600,000 living in the area needed psychosocial support. We continue to work with partners to get life back to normal for families. We provided humanitarian assistance, including a one-off cash grant that was provided to 80,000 children and vulnerable individuals, health and nutrition supplies, psychosocial support to children, and access to water, sanitation and hygiene. We support the reconstruction of damaged schools and health facilities, and income generation opportunities for young people who support affected families.
