A world free of violence against girls and boys, including adolescents.

All girls and boys, including adolescents and those living in situations of vulnerability, grow up with greater freedom from all forms of violence; and those who do experience violence benefit from greater access to care, support, justice and other services needed to ensure physical, mental and social well-being.

RISK-INFORMED CHILD PROTECTION systems that are more resilient in situations of armed conflict, forced displacement and other emergencies.

GREATER AWARENESS of violence as a public health/human rights problem; SOCIAL NORMS more supportive of gender equality and freedom from violence and discrimination.

GREATER NATIONAL COMMITMENT to address violence against girls and boys, including adolescents.

NATIONAL PLANS for coordinated, multisectoral violence prevention and response.

INVESTMENT in violence prevention and response across all sectors.

STRONGER LEGAL AND POLICY FRAMEWORKS (criminal, civil, administrative and regulatory) that support the rights of girls and boys, including adolescents, and provide greater protection from violence and discrimination.

STRONGER MECHANISMS AND GREATER SUPPORT among policymakers and civil society for strengthening legal protections for girls, boys, adolescents.

ENHANCED SYSTEM AND INSTITUTIONAL RESPONSES across all sectors, including prevention, reporting mechanisms, response and support services.

HUMANITARIAN Stronger programming on violence against children and gender-based violence in emergencies

JUSTICE Child-friendly justice; better implementation of laws related to violence and discrimination

SOCIAL WELFARE Enhanced violence against children-related social welfare/child protection prevention and response

HEALTH Enhanced violence-related public health research and prevention; care and support for victims

EDUCATION Greater access to education, life skills and livelihood programmes that are more inclusive and gender equitable and address violence

ENHANCED SYSTEM AND INSTITUTIONAL CAPACITY across all sectors, including normative frameworks; data collection systems; protocols, infrastructure and supplies; workforce preparedness; referral networks; multisectoral collaboration; integrated attention to violence prevention and response across all programming; case detection, reporting, referrals, care, support and prevention.

EXPANDED ACCESS to education, life skills and livelihood programmes; age-appropriate information and services related to violence, rights and sexual and reproductive health.

EXPANDED COVERAGE of prevention efforts, including parenting programmes, household economic support, C4D and community mobilization.

EXPANDED EVIDENCE on violence against girls, boys and adolescents; strengths and gaps in responses to violence across all sectors; and promising strategies for scale-up.

Research, surveillance, administrative data collection, mapping, monitoring, evaluation

GREATER NATIONAL COMMITMENT:
- More evidence about violence among policymakers and civil society.
- Stronger planning and coordination mechanisms that are multisectoral, multi-stakeholder and include adolescent/child participation.
- Greater social and economic equality
- Lower levels of community violence
- Norms supporting non-violence and non-discrimination
- More engagement in Violence against Children prevention

JUSTICE:
- Child-friendly justice;
- Better implementation of laws related to violence and discrimination

SOCIAL WELFARE:
- Enhanced violence against children-related social welfare/child protection prevention and response

HEALTH:
- Enhanced violence-related public health research and prevention;
- Care and support for victims

EDUCATION:
- Greater access to education, life skills and livelihood programmes that are more inclusive and gender equitable and address violence

HUMANITARIAN:
- Stronger programming on violence against children and gender-based violence in emergencies

OUTCOMES
- Girls, boys and adolescents are more empowered to exercise rights and agency to live free of violence, seek help and build gender-equitable, non-violent relationships.
- Households, families and caregivers have:
  - Greater household economic security
  - More gender-equitable attitudes and practices; less violence against women
  - More nurturing parent/child relationships
- Society/communities have:
  - Greater social and economic equality
  - Lower levels of community violence
  - Norms supporting non-violence and non-discrimination
  - More engagement in Violence against Children prevention

IMPACT / GOAL:
- Girls, boys and adolescents grow up with greater freedom from all forms of violence; those who do experience violence benefit from greater access to care, support, justice and other services needed to ensure physical, mental and social well-being.

VISION:
- A world free of violence against girls and boys, including adolescents.